Right Hemisphere Receives 2008 Top Supplier Award from Gulfstream Aerospace

Pleasanton, CA— June 10, 2009 — Right Hemisphere[®], the standard for Visual Enterprise solutions, today announced it has received a 2008 Supplier of the Year award from Gulfstream Aerospace — a wholly owned subsidiary of General Dynamics (NYSE-GD). Award selection was based on the Gulfstream supplier measurement rating card, which evaluates overall solution value, delivery, quality, customer service and compliance for all Gulfstream suppliers. The companies singled out for recognition scored 100 percent in all card categories throughout 2008.

Right Hemisphere's software allows companies like Gulfstream to repurpose their complex product information across a wide variety of business workflows. Right Hemisphere's software does this by unifying visual product information from engineering with relevant business data readily available in corporate CAD, PLM, and ERP systems. The software then delivers that data to various departments around the company to help simplify and speed the creation of a wide variety of downstream deliverables.

"These awards represent the commitment of these companies' leadership and the dedication of their teams to provide excellent service in the areas of quality, delivery and cost," said Bill Williams, vice president, Materials, Gulfstream. "The success of these suppliers is due to their drive and commitment to continuous improvement. We are very proud of our relationship with them."

"Gulfstream is an award-winning aviation leader of exacting standards," said Right Hemisphere CEO Michael Lynch. "I'm particularly honored to accept this award from Gulfstream because it comes from a company which sets the bar of excellence so high for itself, let alone for its suppliers."
